PERU: WONDERS OF THE SACRED VALLEY

OUR PURPOSE

Tucked deep in the Andes Mountains, the Sacred Valley is a magical land of green hills, distant snow capped peaks and calm lakes. We'll follow the river that snakes through the valley to Machu Picchu then onwards to the historic city of Cusco. This is an unparalleled journey that will introduce you to the wildlife, gastronomy, culture & history of this epic corner of the world!

The areas around Cusco and the Sacred Valley are home to some of the most well-preserved traditional communities and innovative conservation projects. Meet the cheerful farmers, weavers and children in the village of Ccorccor where we'll learn about the colorful fabrics used for weaving and play games with the kids. Visit one of the area's most famous hat makers, Elvira Argandano, whose family has made over six hundred thousand hats for residents of the Andes. Join the team at the Llama Pack Project - a non-profit organization that is reintegrating llamas into daily life in the Andes. And finally enjoy a special lunch prepared by Manuel Choque, the world-famous "Potato Whisperer" who is revolutionizing the field of gastronomy.

Over the course of 7 days, experience a Peru that few get to see (and taste!). A journey that will combine nature and culture in one of the most pristine environments on the planet. Along the way, stay in some of Peru's finest 5* properties and delve into Peru's iconic food scene during gourmet dinners in the valley.

HIGHLIGHTS

THE LLAMA PACK PROJECT

For thousands of years, llamas have formed part of daily life in the Andes. The goal of the Llama Pack Project—a non-profit organization—is to reintegrate llamas into daily life in the Andes. The organization has created trekking routes which showcase the breathtaking landscape & local Andean culture. We'll join the llamas along with local villagers on a hike to a beautiful mountain vista. Here, we'll stop to enjoy a fresh lunch alongside the llamas and learn a bit about these curious creatures.

MACHU PICCHU

It goes without saying that Machu Picchu is the highlight of this journey. An archaeological icon and World Wonder, this Incan citadel is an awe-inspiring site to see. We'll embark on a train following the winding Urubamba River starting in the high Andes and descending into the thick equatorial cloud forests. Enter the World Heritage Site and you will be greeted with arguably the most iconic view on the planet, the ruins of Machu Picchu set amongst the soaring mountains and lush vegetation of the surrounding landscape. Words do not describe this feeling!

PERUVIAN GASTRONOMY

In the last decade, Peru has emerged as one of the world's best culinary destinations. The mix of flavors and dishes reflects both the eclectic array of cultures that have inhabited Peru in the last 500 years along with the varied landscapes that make up this country. We'll dive headfirst into some of the best cuisine in the region. Enjoy an unforgettable culinary experience alongside the Sumar family at Hacienda Sarapampa overlooking the Sacred Valley. Taste the traditional flavors of Peruvian cuisine during a gourmet picnic lunch in the mountains. And sample Pachamanca, a traditional Peruvian earth oven once used by the Incas.

POST-TRIP EXTENSION TO THE AMAZON RAINFOREST

Peru is arguably the most geographically diverse country on the planet. Extend your adventure with a 4 day/3 night extension to Peru's Amazon Rainforest. Based at the iconic Tambopata Research Center, stay in pure comfort at one of the Amazon's most pristine stretches of wilderness. We'll spot macaws, go scouting for monkeys, take guided boat rides along the Malinowski River and go on adventurous night hikes to uncover the nocturnal side of the rainforest. If you love nature & wildlife, this the perfect complement to your journey in the Sacred Valley.
